

Product Alert: Oranges and Lemons

August 26, 2015

Orange and Lemon supplies have become extremely short and demand is exceeding supply on both items.

The California drought has caused lighter volumes and under sized fruit. A lot of fruit is being left behind on the packing line due to poor quality. Additionally, a shortage of labor in the orchards to pick the fruit has greatly affected supplies.

These conditions are expected to continue until Navel oranges begin toward mid-to-late October and the desert crop of lemon begins in a limited way toward the end of September.

We appreciate your patience and continued support. We will keep you updated on this situation. If you have any questions please contact your Sales Representative.
